Founded in 2004 by liver transplant recipient and Olympic snowboarder Chris Klug, The Chris Klug Foundation is dedicated to promoting lifesaving donation and improving the quality of life for donors, donor families, organ transplant candidates and recipients.

CKF is passionate about sharing the message of donation, and educating people on the impact one person can have on the lives of so many others. Ninety-five thousand people are currently on waiting lists for solid organ transplants across the U.S.A. with about seventeen hundred in Colorado alone. CKF is devoted to making a difference to those waiting for a second chance. We are also there to help promote the message of organ donation.

Working with young people across the nation, CKF provides campaign materials and information for "Donor Dudes" chapters in high schools and college campuses. People everywhere are touched by organ donation and transplants, and we want to get the message to everyone.
